DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

- 1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:
 - The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
- 2. Claim 2 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. With regard to claim 2, the occurrence of "and" at the end of the claim indicates this claim is incomplete. For the purposes of examination the claim will be read up to and including "electrode." With regard to claim 8, it appears the phrase "a therapy catheter" (first and second lines) should read "the therapy catheter."

Double Patenting

3. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claim 1-3 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 1 of Budd et al. US 5,662,108. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because claim 1 of Budd et al. teaches a method that includes placing active and passive electrodes within a patient's heart, and supplying an oscillating current to active electrodes. It would have been obvious to someone of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to determine the elements of the claimed invention are necessary for performing the method steps of Budd et al.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
- 5. Claims 1-4 and 6-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ben-Haim US 5,391,199. Ben-Haim discloses (abstract) a system and method for treating cardiac arrhythmias with sensing electrodes and signal generating electrodes in contact with a surface, a signal generator connected to signal generating electrodes, an ablation catheter and means for its location, an ECG interfaced with surface electrodes (Figs. 5, 6, 8-10), and means for interconnection of these components (Figs. 1-10 and respective figure descriptions).

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Triedman et al. US 5,848,972 teach a system and method for endocardial mapping in three-dimensions during a stable rhythm of limited duration using a multi-electrode catheter and temporal referencing using an ECG.

Ben-Haim US 5,738,096 teaches endocardial mapping and control of a catheter, compensating for heart motion by using a motion profile generated by a catheter having a position sensor near its distal end.

- 7. Prior art to date do not teach mapping during a tachyarrythmic episode using a signal conditioner, with high- and low-pass sections, to separate electrophysiological signals from signals induced by applied alternating current bursts to generate a composite dynamic electrophysiologic map, a novel feature of this invention.
